Western Cape learners to lock horns in a SAYWP competition in George

25 April 2024

On Saturday, 27 April 2024, high school learners from various schools across Western Cape will lock horns in the annual South African Youth Water Prize competition to be held at the Department of Water and Sanitation Offices in George.

The South African Youth Water Prize (SAYWP) is a science and technology competition for high school learners to encourage them to develop research projects that can help solve major water and sanitation challenges globally.

The Department coordinates SAYWP in collaboration with the Stockholm International Water Institute (SIWI) which is based in Stockholm, Sweden.

The competition begins at provincial level and then proceeds to national, up to the international race which take place in Stockholm, Sweden every year
