CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

- 1 This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.
- 2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.
- 3 Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:
 - a. disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution's supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.
 - b. cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.
- 4 This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.
- 5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

Appointment of a Professional Service Provider for the Determination of Resource Quality Objectives in Mokolo and Matlabas and Crocodile (West) and Marico in the Limpopo
North West Management Area (WMA) for a Period of Eighteen
(18) Months

1. BACKGROUND

The setting of the resource quality objectives (RQOs) is a responsibility of the National Government and it is clearly set out in the National Water Act (NWA) (Act No. 36 of 1998). RQOs are components of the Resource Directed Measures (RDM) strategy for the protection of water resources. The other two components for this strategy are development of the Water Resource Classification System (WRCS) which provides for the setting of management classes for significant water resources and the setting of the Reserve. The Reserve is the water set aside to provide for the basic human needs and to protect the ecosystem.

The RQOs are numerical and narrative descriptors of conditions that need to be met in order to achieve the required management scenario as provided during the water resource classification. The purpose of the RQOs is to establish clear goals, balancing the needs to protect and sustain the water resource against the need to develop and use them.

The RQOs may relate to the Reserve, the instream flow, the water level, the presence and concentration of particular substances in the water, characteristics and quality of the water resource and instream and riparian habitat, the characteristics and distribution of aquatic biota, the regulation or prohibition of instream or land-based activities which may affect the quality of water in or quality of the water resource, and any other characteristic of watercourse in question.

In the South African water resources management, the acceptable level of impact hinges on the concept of RQOs as the balance between resource protection and resource development and utilization. The setting of RQOs is catchment specific based on trade-offs amongst the social, economic and political drivers for development and utilization of water resources and reflects societal sanction of activities in a catchment.

In response to the requirement of the National Water Act of the determination of the class of significant water resources and concomitant setting of the Reserve and RQOs; the Department developed procedures to determine RQOs. These procedures are composed of seven steps which are aligned to the Water Resource Classification Systems (WRCS) and are going to be employed to ensure that RQOs are determined consistently.

2. STUDY MOTIVATION

The Department completed a study for the implementation of the WRCS in the determination of appropriate classes for significant water resources of the Mokolo and Matlabas catchments and the Crocodile (West) Marico. These management classes determined will guide management of these areas in order to meet the departmental objectives of managing, protecting, developing, utilising, controlling and conserving the country's water resources in a sustainable manner. It will also help in maintaining and if possible improving the Present Ecological State (PES) of the water resources.

In addition to the setting of the management classes; the outcome of the classification process is also the setting of the Reserve and the RQOs. The RQOs describes the conditions that need to be met in order to achieve the requirements of the management class determined through the implementation of the WRCS. As such in order to complete the resource protection requirement; there is a compelling need to determine the RQOs that will be gazetted with the management classes.

The catchments associated with the Mokolo and the Crocodile (West) Marico are one of many water stressed catchments in South Africa. The Mokolo catchment has specific development pressures, especially the construction of Medupi power station, mining, industries and agricultural activities, all associated with increased water demands in the catchment. The Steenbokpan area, situated in the Matlabas catchment, is part of the Lephalale coalfield and numerous mining developments are foreseen for this region. The Crocodile West and Marico surface water resources are used extensively, particularly in the Crocodile River Catchment, with the main water users being agriculture, industry, mining and urban use. Crocodile (West) and Marico in the Limpopo North West Water Management Area(WMA) is characterized by the sprawling urban and industrial areas of northern Johannesburg and Pretoria, extensive irrigation downstream of Hartbeespoort Dam and large mining developments north of the Magaliesberg.

The Crocodile West & Marico in the Limpopo North West (WMA) is positioned in the economic heart of South Africa and this has a bearing on water requirements and associated waste discharges that impact on the water resources. The water resources in the catchments have already been fully developed and most of the tributaries as well as the main stem of the Crocodile (West) River are highly regulated. Most of the water used in the catchment is supplied from the Vaal River system via Rand Water, mainly to serve the metropolitan areas and some mining developments. This in turn results in large quantities of effluent from the urban and industrial users, most of which is discharged to the river systems after treatment, for re-use downstream. In many of the streams and impoundments, water quality is severely compromised by the proportionate large return flows.

3 AIM AND OBJECTIVES OF THE PROJECT

The main aim of the project is to determine RQOs for all significant water resources in the above-mentioned study area to give effect to the recommended Management Classes already determined. The RQOs are to be determined in accordance with the Department of Water and Sanitation Regulations on the establishment of a Water Resource Classification System (Regulation 810 of Government Gazette 33541 dated 17 September 2010) as well as the Procedures to Determine and Implement Resource Quality Objectives. The procedures can be sourced from the Department of Water and Sanitation (DWS) Head Office or can be downloaded from the DWS internet, <http://www.dws.gov.za/rdm/Documents>.

4. METHODOLOGY AND SCOPE OF WORK

The potential PSP will determine the RQOs using the procedures to determine RQOs developed by the Department in the year 2010. Most of the information required to determine RQOs was generated during the water resource classification process, and as such this project is deliberately timed to lag behind the classification in order to avoid duplication of information generation. The PSP will therefore be required to skip steps relevant to the project which are covered during the classification process. However, when it is necessary, a verification process may be instituted to ensure that the objective of the project is met consistently. Consideration must also be given to the substantial work that had been undertaken in the catchments.

4.1 Project Inception

This phase provides the PSP and DWS with the opportunity to have a common understanding of the project objectives. Thus the role of the PSP will be to identify, assess and understand the nature and scope of the project and to ensure that it is in line with DWS requirements. The PSP is also expected to document all the relevant information currently available on the study area. One of the tasks to be undertaken during this phase is to identify relevant activities that have been carried out by the classification process and activities that are common between the classification process and the process of determining RQOs. Those shared activities or activities having a potential to be shared between the two processes should be indicated and a provisional schedule or plan must be provided with details of where and how the activity or activities will be incorporated.

4.2 Review of Water Resources Information and Data Gathered

DWS will provide the PSP with all reviewed existing literature, reports, maps, aerial photographs, and any other relevant information on the study area including any water resources systems analysis conducted. In order to provide a detailed project plan of the additional work that may be required; PSPs are expected to review the data provided in order to provide a plan to address any information and data shortfall. PSPs are expected to build the uncertainty that may lead to data and information shortfall/gap into the project plan and price in order to avoid future readjustment of the project budget and plan.

4.3 Determination of RQOs

In this phase the seven step procedure to determine Resource Quality Objectives must be followed. The RQO determination process must not be limited to Surface Water Resource Quality Objectives, but must be extended to all forms of water resources that exist in the water management areas (wetlands, lakes, river, groundwater, etc.) The PSPs shall be expected to undertake the tasks and activities as described in the project plan in accordance with the approach and methodologies proposed in the Inception Report. While it is not absolutely restrictive to limit the PSP to a specific approach to the achievement of the project objective, it is however appropriate to highlight some of the tasks that will form the core of activities specifically leading to the determination of RQOs. These activities include:

- Alignment with steps of the Water Resource Classification process ;
- Ensuring the delineated resource units are prioritised and indicators selected for monitoring
- Development of draft RQOs and numerical limits
- Agree, Resource units RQOs and numerical limits with stakeholders
- Population of the Water Resource Classes template with associated RQOs for gazetting;
- Assisting the Department in selecting independent reviewers for the review of the study reports, if and when necessary;
- Ensuring that all study documents, including specialists' reports are received in the format and quantities described and that all the project files are completed and transferred to DWS; and
- The final report should also contain information on the prescribed capacity building program and implementation thereof, for HDIs where available, and the skills transfer to DWS personnel with respect to different fields of study.

4.4 Water Resources Classification

The Classification process is at its concluding phase and the RQOs should support the Management classes already determined. All the data and information generated from the determination of the Management classes should be used in the determination of the RQOs to support the Management classes .The classification documents can be found through the following link: <http://www.dws.gov.za/rdm/WRCS/default.aspx>

4.5 Communication and liaison

The scope of the communication and liaison services to be provided by the PSP will include, but not be limited to the following:

- Stakeholder engagement plan
- Group meetings with specialist task teams,
- Arrangement of institutional workshops,

- Coordination of project steering committee meetings, and
- Stakeholder participation and liaison.

4.6. Stakeholder engagement.

Provision should be made in the stakeholder engagement plan for stakeholder engagement throughout the duration of the project including the gazetting process to facilitate adequate consultation with the public. The number of meetings will be determined by the PSP and the Department.

4.7. Reporting

The appointed PSP shall produce at least the following project management outputs:

- Progress reports, technical memoranda and other material necessary to properly inform the Client and other stakeholders. It should be noted that the progress reports required for the project management meetings shall be compiled by the PSP and should document the progress of work against the programme, actual expenditure against cash flow estimates, significant findings and outcomes and corrective actions taken in respect of work programme and cash flow estimates.
- Ensure that a complete record of proceedings of the project management meetings is maintained and appropriately archived.
- Technical progress should be provided after each defined deliverable in the form of an interim milestone report. These reports shall describe the procedures and methodologies followed and the results achieved and shall be prepared and submitted to the Client according to the milestone programme. These reports will be used as supporting documents to write the main report.
- Report on project progress (financial, technical and human resources) at project management meetings and at other forums.

6. CAPACITY BUILDING

Capacity building will be realized through the following mechanisms, namely:

- PSPs are expected to conduct capacity building workshops at each step in the 7 step PQOs process of the project. The workshop should ensure that the stakeholders are trained to the level of at least:
 - Understanding the Resource Directed Measures strategy for the protection of water resources
 - Understanding the relationship that exist amongst Reserve determination, Water Resource Classification and Resource Quality Objectives determination processes
 - Understanding Integrated Water Resources Management and sustainable development
- Participation of relevant DWS officials will ensure active sharing of ideas and contribution to the broadening of the Water Ecosystems skills base by being intensively involved in the day-to-day running of the project.
- The Department will second its staff members to the appointed project team. The PSP team shall develop a capacity building programme as part of the inception report. This programme should include specific quantifiable measures to ensure that capacity building takes place throughout the project.

7. HISTORICALLY DISADVANTAGE INDIVIDUALS (HDIs) INVOLVEMENT

According to the Department’s policy for the appointment of the PSP, the required participation rate for the HDIs should be 50%, meaning that HDI should be 50% for workload distribution in hours and also 50% for financial distribution. It is also required for the PSP to provide in a table form activities, specialist, hours and hourly rate. The table should be as follows:

Surname and Initials	Gender	Race	Specialty	Affiliation	Hourly Rate	No of hours allocated	Total Budget cost per individual

8. GUIDELINE FOR THE PREPARATION OF PROJECT PROPOSALS

The applicant must compile and submit a written project proposal to the Department as follows:

- A detailed understanding of the Terms of Reference (TOR) for the project.
- A work breakdown structure containing list of tasks needed to execute the project, as well as personnel, cost and time estimates associated with the individual.
- Proposed Project Schedule in a Gantt format.
- A list of deliverables i.e. reports, data and electronic copies.
- Proposed project team, team leader and availability of the individual consultant team members. Submission of curricula vitae is required of all persons whom the bidder proposes to execute the tasks.
- A reasonable cost estimates (ceiling price) for the project, including VAT.
- The Employment Equity Policy of the consultant firm.

The written project proposal will be evaluated on the following criteria:

- Past Experience on previous relevant projects and overall track record. It is considered less important in larger, conceptually difficult and multi-disciplinary projects. It should also be noted that past experience is realistically linked to individuals rather than firms in the case of professional services.
- Methodology considers the responsiveness to the Terms of Reference (ToR), the level of detail in the proposal, attention to project management and innovative approaches and ideas.
- Team Capability considers the technical and professional skills of the project team, regional knowledge if relevant and proven conceptual abilities (supported by other client references if needed).
- A description of how skills will be transferred to meet the developmental needs of individuals in the Departments.
- HDI Participation promotes the participation (in terms of direct project involvement and fees earned) of Historical Disadvantaged Individuals (HDI's). It is considered more important in the smaller projects to build capacity and promote Small Micro Medium Enterprise's (SMME's).
- Proportionate to the participation rate that is proposed. Again gender and disability needs to be taken account of.
- Study budget. Costs should be based on a fixed price per product. The budget shall contain sufficient detail to allow expenditure to be monitored in relation to progress. The budget will be submitted as a separate document, but should be tied to the proposed programme of the works.
