

Groundwater 03

How are these people looking after their environment and their health?

Talk about all the things that these people have done to keep their water clean and themselves healthy.

Draw a water map
Draw a map of the place where you live. On your map show the places where water comes from and the places where it is used. Go to each of these places and look for possible health problems. Record your findings on your map. What could be done to solve some of these problems?

This is the third in a series of posters about groundwater and our health. It is an interactive teaching tool and must be used with Posters 1 and 2 and the Teacher's Guide.
