Minister Mokonyane donates 350 water wheelbarrows to churchgoers during Easter Weekend

29 March 2016

In the spirit of Easter festivities just past, Water and Sanitation Minister, Nomvula Mokonyane donated 350 wheelbarrows to the congregants of Tyrannus Apostolic Church in De Deur on Sunday 27 March 2016. The wheelbarrows will assist both men and women in collecting and storing drinking water for their families.

"We are very grateful and commend the Minister for thinking about the poor and underprivileged, whilst giving them something they so dearly needed. We hope she does the same in other places too", said the church's leader Apostle Simon Mokoena.

Minister's visit to the church was one of her many visits to churches across the country to encourage congregants to pray for rain as the country faces one of the worst droughts for many years.

"It is highly important that churches work together with the government to help deal with issues affecting South Africans. Let us come together and always include rain in our prayers", urged Minister during her address to the thousands of churchgoers.

The visit to Tyrannus was part of the plan where different ministers and leaders are visiting different places of worship encouraging masses to pray for divine interventions, especially for challenges such as the drought.
